1 Plaintiffs Henry's Bullfrog Bees, Golden Prairie Honey Farms Corporation (d/b/a 2 Valor Honey), and Kelvin Adeo (collectively, "Plaintiffs") respectfully submit this 3 memorandum of points and authorities in opposition to the motion to stay discovery filed
4 by Defendants Sunland Trading, Inc. ("Sunland"), Lamex Foods, Inc. ("Lamex"), Export
5 Packers Company Limited (d/b/a Odem International) ("Odem"), Barkman Honey, LLC
6 ("Barkman"), Dutch Gold Honey, Inc. ("Dutch Gold"), True Source Honey, LLC ("True
7 Source"), and NSF International ("NSF") (collectively, "Defendants"). See Defs.' Mot. Stay
8 Disc., ECF No. 127 ("Mot.").

9 For the reasons below, Defendants' Motion is meritless, and the Court should deny 10 it.

11 INTRODUCTION

12 Delay of justice results in the denial of justice. During a stay, witnesses relocate, 13 memories fade, and persons aggrieved are unable to seek vindication or redress.
14 Unwarranted delay thwarts the goal of Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 1, to "secure the 15 just, speedy, and inexpensive determination of every action and proceeding." FED. R.

17 Moreover, there is no automatic stay of discovery during the pendency of a motion
18 to dismiss pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6). Instead, as Defendants 19 admit, a party moving to stay discovery while a motion to dismiss is pending must show
20 good cause to do so under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 26(c).

21 Defendants' Motion does not come close to meeting their "heavy burden" of 22 making a "strong showing" as to why this meritorious action should be stayed.
23 Defendants' superficial statements and vague articulations are insufficient. They do not,
24 as they must, attempt to take a "peek" at the merits of their motions to dismiss,<sup>1</sup> instead 25 offering only conclusory assertions. They fall far short of any effort to show there is an

26
27 <sup>1</sup> "District courts have consistently found that a judge deciding whether to issue a stay of 28 discovery should take a 'peek' at the merits of the potentially dispositive motion in evaluating whether a stay should issue." Mlejnecky v. Olympus Imaging Am., Inc., No. 2:10-cv-02630 JAM KJN, 2011 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 16128, at *28 (E.D. Cal. Feb. 7, 2011).

1 “immediate and clear possibility,” or to leave the Court “convinced,” that their motions to 2 dismiss will prevail.<sup>2</sup>

3 Defendants’ Motion to Stay boils down to an argument that the Court should stay
4 discovery because (i) Defendants have filed motions to dismiss pursuant to Rule 12(b)(6)
5 and Rule 9(b); (ii) antitrust discovery, by its very nature, is burdensome; and (iii) Plaintiffs 6 will eventually have 18 months to conduct discovery, after Defendants file their answers.
7 These arguments fall far short of satisfying the “heavy burden” to show “good cause”
8 sufficient to justify a stay of discovery. The Court should deny Defendants’ Motion and 9 allow discovery to proceed apace.

10 RELEVANT FACTUAL AND PROCEDURAL BACKGROUND

11 I. Relevant Factual Background

12 Since at least 2017, Sunland, Lamex, and Odem (the “Importer Defendants”) have 13 distributed low-cost, low-quality, fake honey purporting to be genuine to entities
14 throughout the United States, including to Barkman and Dutch Gold (the “Packer 15 Defendants”). Second Am. Compl. ¶¶ 107-25, ECF No. 98 (“SAC”). The Packer
16 Defendants knowingly purchase the fake honey, process it, and resell it in the U.S. retail,
17 wholesale, and bulk ingredient markets as genuine. Id. ¶¶ 113, 126-40. True Source
18 facilitates this fraud by coordinating with NSF (the “Certifier Defendants”), to audit, test, 19 and certify “the origin, food safety, and purity of the honey.” Id. ¶ 64; see also id. ¶¶ 1, 7-20 14, 48, 84-88, 116, 135, 190, 277. Despite claiming to be an industry watchdog ensuring 21 the supply chain is free from adulterated honey, however, True Source intentionally fails
22 to monitor the Importer and Packer Defendants for compliance with its own certification
23

24 <sup>2</sup> A “district court may . . . stay discovery when it is convinced that the plaintiff will be 25 unable to state a claim for relief.” Optronic Techs., Inc. v. Ningbo Sunny Elec. Co., No.
26 5:16-cv-06370-EJD, 2018 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 26244, at *2 (N.D. Cal. Feb. 16, 2018)
27 (emphasis added) (quoting Wood v. McEwen, 644 F.2d 797, 801 (9th Cir. 1981)). A party 28 seeking a discovery stay must demonstrate an “immediate and clear possibility” that the Court will grant its motion to dismiss, GTE Wireless, Inc., 192 F.R.D. at 287, or, alternatively, it must make a “clear and convincing” showing that it will prevail on the merits of its motion, Seven Springs Ltd. P’ship v. Fox Cap. Mgmt. Corp., No. S-07-0142 LKK GGH, 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 32068, at *5-6 (E.D. Cal. Apr. 18, 2007).

requirements. Id. at ¶¶ 89-96. True Source has a strong interest in perpetuating the fraud, since its Board of Directors is comprised of the entities that it audits. Id. at ¶ 89. Both the Importer and Packer Defendants, as members of True Source, utilize the True Source Certified Seal to represent the honey they sell is authentic. Id. ¶¶ 72, 75-78, 86.

By conspiring to import and sell fake honey certified as genuine, Defendants harmed and continue to harm the U.S. honey market, including Plaintiffs and other domestic commercial beekeepers who sell genuine honey. Id. ¶ 141. The Importer and Packer Defendants sell the fake honey in the U.S. for substantially less than the fair market price of the genuine honey produced and sold by Plaintiffs and the class members. Id. ¶ 142. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' fraudulent conduct, Plaintiffs and the class members lost sales of genuine honey to Defendants, or had to sell their genuine honey at deeply-discounted prices, eliminating or severely impeding their ability to profit or increase their output. Id. ¶ 145. Plaintiffs seek compensatory and prospective injunctive relief relating to Defendants' violations of the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act, 18 U.S.C. § 1961 et seq. ("RICO"); the Sherman Antitrust Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1; California's Cartwright Act, CAL BUS. & PROF. CODE § 16720; and California's Unfair Competition Law, CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 17200, et seq. ("UCL"); and for Defendants' unjust enrichment. SAC ¶¶ 3, 164-284.

II. Relevant Procedural History

Plaintiffs filed this case on March 29, 2021. Compl., ECF No. 1. On June 28, 2021, Plaintiffs filed their First Amended Complaint ("FAC"). ECF No. 43. On August 6, 2021, the Court approved a stipulation of the parties and ordered, among other things, that "[a]ll discovery in this case shall be stayed until 60 days following the filing of the last reply filed in support of any defendant(s)' motion(s) to dismiss the [FAC]" (the "Discovery Stay Period"); that the "deadline for the parties to confer as required by Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 26(f) shall be extended to the earlier of (i) 60 days following the filing of the last reply filed in support of any defendant's motion(s) to dismiss the [FAC], and (ii) 30 days following the last Court order ruling on all motions to dismiss (to the extent any

1 claims remain following an order”); and that “[t]he deadline to complete all discovery, with 2 the exception of expert discovery, shall be extended to 18 months from the date upon 3 which the last answer may be filed with the Court pursuant to the Federal Rules of Civil 4 Procedure.” Joint Stip. & Order re Disc. Stay & Deadlines 3, 8, ECF No. 57.

5 Defendants moved to dismiss the FAC on August 16, 2021. ECF Nos. 64, 67-68,
6 70-72. Plaintiffs opposed on September 30, 2021, ECF Nos. 74-79, and Defendants filed
7 replies on November 8 through November 10, 2021, ECF Nos. 82-87. On November 5, 8 2021, the Court took the motions under submission without oral argument and vacated 9 the hearing. ECF No. 81. At the end of the Discovery Stay Period, Defendants filed a 10 motion to stay discovery pending the outcome of the motions to dismiss the FAC. ECF 11 No. 88.

12 On February 25, 2022, the Court dismissed Plaintiffs' FAC on grounds Plaintiffs'
13 claims did not meet Rule 9(b)'s pleading requirements. ECF No. 95. Defendants' motion 14 to stay discovery was thus denied as moot. Id. at 6-7. Additionally, the Court gave 15 Plaintiffs leave to file an amended complaint.

16 On March 28, 2022, Plaintiffs filed their SAC. Plaintiffs addressed the Court's 17 comments concerning the specificity required to state a claim, by alleging with particularity
18 how Defendants perpetrated their scheme to introduce fake honey into the United States'
19 honey market. Among other things, the SAC newly specifies that an accredited food 20 testing laboratory has revealed widespread use of extraneous, non-honey syrups in 21 products labeled as True Source Certified “honey” and sold by Barkman and Odem in the 22 United States, SAC ¶ 1, and alleges the honey at issue “contains extraneous syrups 23 and/or is processed with resin technology which changes the honey's fundamental 24 composition,” id. at ¶¶ 7-9. Plaintiffs also newly support their allegations of knowledge of 25 wrongdoing by alleging NSF accepts bribes from True Source Certified exporters and 26 packers to conduct sham, cursory audits. Id. at ¶¶ 14, 97-98. Despite these allegations, 27 Defendants filed six Motions to Dismiss the SAC, and briefing on these motions was 28 completed in May 2022. See ECF Nos. 115-16, 118-20, 122. The Court has not yet ruled on these motions.

ARGUMENT

Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 26(b)(1) provides that parties “may obtain discovery regarding any nonprivileged matter that is relevant to any party’s claim or defense and proportional to the needs of the case” and that “[i]nformation within this scope of discovery need not be admissible in evidence to be discoverable.” FED. R. CIV. P. 26(b)(1).

As Defendants acknowledge, Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 26(c) governs stays of discovery. See San Francisco Tech. v. Kraco Enterprises LLC, No. 5:11-cv-00355 EJD, 2011 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 59933, at *3-6 (N.D. Cal. June 6, 2011); Mot. at 3. Under the Rule, “[t]he court may, for good cause, issue an order to protect a party or person from . . . undue burden or expense,” including forbidding discovery. FED. R. CIV. P. 26(c).

To show “good cause” in this context, the moving party bears a “heavy burden” that requires a “strong showing” sufficient to justify deviation from the default rule permitting discovery. Gray v. First Winthrop Corp., 133 F.R.D. 39, 40 (N.D. Cal. 1990); accord Driscoll’s, Inc. v. Cal. Berry Cultivars, LLC, No. 2:19-cv-00493-TLN-CKD, 2021 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 204557, at *16-17 (E.D. Cal. Oct. 22, 2021) (“It is well-established that a party seeking a stay of discovery carries the heavy burden of making a strong showing why discovery should be denied.”). Meeting this high standard requires a showing that “specific prejudice or harm will result” if no stay is ordered. Foltz v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., 331 F.3d 1122, 1130 (9th Cir. 2003). Vague generalizations are insufficient. Beckman Indus., Inc. v. Int’l Ins. Co., 966 F.2d 470, 476 (9th Cir. 1992) (“Broad allegations of harm, unsubstantiated by specific examples or articulated reasoning, do not satisfy the Rule 26(c) test.”). “The district court has wide discretion in controlling discovery.” Little v. City of Seattle, 863 F.2d 681, 685 (9th Cir. 1988).

I. The Court Should Deny Defendants’ Request to Stay Discovery Because They Have Not Met Their “Heavy Burden” to Show Good Cause for a Blanket Stay of Discovery

In California’s district courts, “[a] two-pronged test is used to determine whether a protective order should issue staying discovery.” Driscoll’s, Inc., 2021 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 204557, at *17 (citing Lowery v. F.A.A., No. Civ. S-93-1352 EJG/GGH, 1994 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 21984, at *8-10 (E.D. Cal. Apr. 11, 1994)). “First, a pending motion must be potentially dispositive of the entire case, or at least dispositive on the issue at which discovery is directed.” Id. “Second, the court must determine whether the pending dispositive motion can be decided absent discovery.” Id. “If the court answers these two questions in the affirmative, a protective order may ensue.” Lowery, 1994 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 21984, at *9. “However, if either prong of this test is negative, discovery proceeds.” Id. at *9-10.

Furthermore, “[i]n evaluating a motion to stay, a court ‘inevitably must balance the harm produced by a delay in discovery against the possibility that the motion will be granted and entirely eliminate the need for such discovery.’” Salazar v. Honest Tea, Inc., 2:13-cv-02318-KJM-EFB. 2015 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 146357, at *4 (E.D. Cal. Oct. 28, 2015); accord Oertell v. Six Flags Ent. Corp., No. 2:17-cv-00267-TLN-DB, 2018 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 9067, at *4-5 (E.D. Cal. Jan. 19, 2018) (Nunley, J.).

As discussed below, Defendants’ Motion fails both prongs of the two-part test, see infra Argument §§ I.A-B, and Defendants otherwise fail to carry their heavy burden to demonstrate good cause to stay discovery while their motions to dismiss are pending, see infra Argument § I.C.

A. Defendants Have Not Attempted to Demonstrate an “Immediate and Clear Possibility” That the Court Will Grant Their Motions to Dismiss.

To satisfy the first prong of the two-part test, it is not enough for a moving party to show only that its motion to dismiss, if granted, would dispose of the entire case. Rather, “[d]istrict courts have consistently found that a judge deciding whether to issue a stay of discovery should take a ‘peek’ at the merits of the potentially dispositive motion in evaluating whether a stay should issue.” Mlejnecky v. Olympus Imaging Am., Inc., No. 2:10-cv-02630 JAM KJN, 2011 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 16128, at *28 (E.D. Cal. Feb. 7, 2011); accord Driscoll's, Inc., 2021 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 204557, at *19; Spearman v. I Play, Inc., No. 2:17-cv-01563-TLN-KJN, 2018 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 44815, at *4 (E.D. Cal. Mar. 19, 2018) (Nunley, J.) (court took “a ‘preliminary peek’ at the merits of the underlying motions to dismiss”). A party seeking a discovery stay must demonstrate an “immediate and clear possibility” that the Court will grant its motion to dismiss, GTE Wireless, Inc., 192 F.R.D. at 287, or, alternatively, it must make a “clear and convincing” showing that it will prevail on the merits of its motion, Seven Springs Ltd. P’ship v. Fox Cap. Mgmt. Corp., No. S-07-0142 LKK GGH, 2007 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 32068, at *5-6 (E.D. Cal. Apr. 18, 2007); see also Mlejnecky, 2011 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 16128, at *23-28 (discussing standards courts have applied in evaluating the first prong).

As noted above, a “district court may . . . stay discovery when it is convinced that the plaintiff will be unable to state a claim for relief.” Optronic Techs., Inc. v. Ningbo Sunny Elec. Co., No. 5:16-cv-06370-EJD, 2018 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 26244, at *2 (N.D. Cal. Feb. 16, 2018) (emphasis added) (quoting Wood v. McEwen, 644 F.2d 797, 801 (9th Cir. 1981)). “Generally, there must be no question in the court’s mind that the dispositive motion will prevail, and therefore, discovery is a waste of effort.” Kor Media Grp., LLC v. Green, 294 F.R.D. 579, 583 (D. Nev. 2013). “Absent extraordinary circumstances, litigation should not be delayed simply because a non-frivolous motion has been filed.” Id.

Tellingly, Defendants do not attempt to show under either standard that the Court will grant their motions to dismiss. They merely claim, in conclusory fashion, that their motions offer “compelling grounds” for dismissal. Mot. at 4. Defendants have fallen far short of showing an “immediate and clear possibility,” or of making a “clear and convincing” showing, that the Court will grant their motions. See Mlejnecky, 2011 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 16128, at *23-28. This failure dooms Defendants’ arguments under the first prong.<sup>3</sup> See id.

i. Merely Filing a Motion to Dismiss Does Not Warrant a Stay

Defendants suggest that the mere filing of their Rule 12(b)(6) motions entitles them to a stay of discovery. Mot. at 2, 7 (citing Rutman Wine Co. v. E. & J. Gallo Winery, 829 F.2d 729, 738 (9th Cir. 1987)). This is wrong. “[T]he Federal Rules of Civil Procedure does not provide for automatic or blanket stays of discovery when a potentially dispositive motion is pending.” Mlejnecky, 2011 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 16128, at *18; accord EHang Inc. v. Wang, No. 21-cv-02700-BLF, 2021 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 158041, at *5 (N.D. Cal. Aug. 20, 2021) (denying motion to stay discovery while motion to dismiss was pending). “‘Indeed, district courts look unfavorably upon such blanket stays of discovery,’ because delaying or prolonging discovery can create unnecessary litigation expenses and case management problems.” Salazar, 2015 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 146357, at *4 (citations omitted).

“Had the Federal Rules contemplated that a motion to dismiss under Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(b)(6) would stay discovery, the Rules would contain a provision for that effect.” Skellerup Indus. Ltd. v. City of Los Angeles, 163 F.R.D. 598, 600-01 (C.D. Cal. 1995). “In fact, such a notion is directly at odds with the need for expeditious resolution of litigation.” Id. at 601; see also Lemmon v. Pierce Cty., No. C21-5390RSL, 2021 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 218538, at *2 (W.D. Wash. July 7, 2021) (“The mere existence of a motion to dismiss is insufficient on its own to warrant a stay of discovery . . . .”); Ocean Garden Prod. Inc. v. Blessings Inc., No. CV-18-00322-TUC-RM, 2020 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 132343, at *10 (D. Ariz. July 27, 2020) (“[Defendant’s] filing of dismissal motions did not automatically relieve it of its obligation to respond to [plaintiff’s] discovery requests . . . .”).

The order denying the defendants’ motion to stay discovery in the antitrust case of Optronic Technologies, Inc. v. Ningbo Sunny Electronic Co., No. 5:16-cv-06370-EJD, 2018 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 26244 (N.D. Cal. Feb. 16, 2018), is on point. In Optronic Technologies, Inc., the court granted the defendants’ motion to dismiss the plaintiff’s cv-01518-NONE-JLT, 2021 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 113107 (E.D. Cal. June 16, 2021), however that case is inapposite because there, the parties agreed to stay discovery. Id. at *1.

complaint in its entirety, with leave to amend. Optronics Techs., Inc., 2018 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 26244, at *1. The plaintiff filed an amended pleading, and the defendants again moved to dismiss. Id. The defendants then moved to stay discovery. Id. at *1-2. The court denied the motion to stay discovery. Id. at *6. The court observed:

Discovery stays are not automatic, however, and the two-factor test is not satisfied by superficial statements or vague articulations demonstrating nothing more than the traditional burdens of litigation. Rather, “[t]he moving party must show a particular and specific need for the protective order, as opposed to making stereotyped or conclusory statements.” This requirement accounts for the fact that blanket stays of all discovery matters are an exception to the rules rather than enunciated in the rules.

Id. at *2-3. Applying the two-factor test, the court held the first factor was “only superficially satisfied” because even though the motion to dismiss could lead to dismissal of the entire case, the defendants had not cited anything rendering dismissal more likely than denial of the motion, “outside of their own opinion of the Amended Complaint’s deficiencies.” Id. at *3-4. They had not, for example, “explained why the Amended Complaint is ‘utterly frivolous, or filed merely in order to conduct a “fishing expedition” or for settlement value.’” Id. at *4. Here, as in Optronics Technologies, Inc., Defendants have not shown that dismissal is more likely than denial of their motions to dismiss, outside of their own conclusory belief that their motions to dismiss are “compelling.” Mot. at 4. As in Optronics Technologies, Inc., that is insufficient to carry Defendants’ burden.

If Defendants’ suggestion that the mere filing of a Rule 12(b)(6) motion always resulted in a stay of discovery were correct, federal litigation would be bottlenecked, and the courts would be clogged with iterative motions and stayed litigation. That is not reality, and it is not the law.

ii. Defendants’ Motions to Dismiss Lack Merit.

As discussed above, Defendants have done little more than argue in conclusory fashion that their motions to dismiss should be granted See Mot. at 5-6. That is insufficient to satisfy their threshold showing there is an “immediate and clear possibility” (or the Court should be “convinced”) that their motions will be granted.

Defendants argue the SAC still fails to plead fraud with particularity under Rule 9(b), Mot. at 5, despite the additional allegations Plaintiffs have added to sufficiently to provide Defendants notice of the alleged fraud, including how Defendants' honey was adulterated. Plaintiffs first identifies, with particularity, specific shipments of adulterated honey imported by the Importer Defendants (Lamex, Sunland, and Odem). SAC ¶¶ 121-25. Then Plaintiffs identify specific testing of the Packer Defendants' (Barkman and Dutch Gold) honey, which was revealed not to be authentic. Among other things, Plaintiffs allege:

At the request of Barkman, Odem's honey was tested in June 2018 by an accredited food testing laboratory using NMR technology and 24 of its samples originating from India were found to be adulterated with added sugar syrup. After receiving the results, Barkman ceased contact with the laboratory and turned instead to Intertek to provide testing, knowing that Intertek would provide the results it was looking for. Barkman went on to sell the adulterated honey it purchased from Odem to purchasers in the United States during the Class Period.

SAC ¶ 113. Plaintiffs also allege, "[i]n September 2020, Dutch Gold 'honey' from Vietnam and India was tested by an accredited laboratory and found to contain extraneous non-honey syrups, meaning it is adulterated, fake honey." Id. ¶ 131. Plaintiffs further allege that True Source certified both Barkman and Dutch Gold's honey in 2011 and annually thereafter, knowing their "honey" is fake or adulterated and having caused NSF and Intertek to engage in sham auditing and testing to obscure the adulteration. Id. ¶¶ 137-38. Plaintiff additionally alleges how the honey was fake—namely, that it was processed with extraneous syrups and/or with resin technology that changed the honey's fundamental composition. Id. at ¶¶ 7-9. These allegations are sufficient to satisfy the Rule 9(b) pleading standard.

Defendants' arguments concerning Plaintiffs' RICO and antitrust claims are also unpersuasive. With respect to RICO, and as discussed in Plaintiffs' Opposition to Defendants' Omnibus Motion to Dismiss (ECF No. 110), the SAC more than sufficiently alleges proximate causation, id. at 7-9; plausible associated-in-fact enterprises, id. at 9-10; that Defendants conducted the affairs of those enterprises, id. at 10-11; a pattern of 1 racketeering activity, id. at 11; and a conspiracy to violate RICO, id.

2 With respect to Plaintiffs' antitrust claims, Plaintiffs have shown that they have 3 standing to bring antitrust claims, id. at 19-20; that their claims give rise to per se violations
4 of the antitrust laws, id. at 12-13; and that, in any event, the SAC plausibly alleges
5 Defendants violate the rule of reason, id. at 13-19. Plaintiffs have plausibly alleged a 6 conspiracy to restrain trade, id. at 20-24, as well as a relevant market, market power, and 7 harm to competition, id. at 13-19.

8 The UCL and unjust enrichment claims should also survive dismissal. The SAC 9 sufficiently alleges UCL standing and both "unlawful" and "unfair" business practices, and 10 their UCL claims are not preempted. Id. at 24-25. And contrary to Defendants' arguments, 11 unjust enrichment is an independent cause of action, and Plaintiffs' unjust enrichment
12 claims do not depend on the same factual allegations as their other claims. Id. at 25.

13 At minimum, there are complex issues for the Court to analyze that cannot be 14 resolved at first blush, and Defendants have fallen far short of showing, for purposes of 15 this Motion, an "immediate and clear possibility" that their motions to dismiss will be 16 granted in full.

17 Furthermore, in the unlikely event that Defendants' motions to dismiss are granted 18 in full, any issues could be cured by an amended pleading. Leave to amend must 19 generally be granted if a shortcoming in the pleadings can be cured. Eminence Cap., LLC
20 v. Aspeon, Inc., 316 F.3d 1048, 1051 (9th Cir. 2003) (Rule 15's policy that "leave shall be 21 freely given when justice so requires" is "to be applied with extreme liberality"). Since 22 Plaintiffs are free to use the information obtained in discovery in any amended complaint, 23 no party's discovery efforts would be wasted.

24 In short, discovery should not be stayed because Defendants have not shown an 25 "immediate and clear possibility" that their motions to dismiss could prevail; and even if 26 Defendants' motions are granted, there would be no final disposition of the case, and the 27 need for discovery would not be eliminated.

B. If the Court Denies Defendants' Motion to Stay Discovery, Plaintiffs Would Serve Discovery Requests That Are Relevant to Defendants' Unlawful Conduct

The Court should hold the second factor weighs in Plaintiffs' favor as well, because Plaintiffs seek to propound discovery requests that are relevant to Defendants' motions to dismiss. "Mlejnecky [v. Olympus Imaging Am., Inc.] requires this Court to permit discovery that is relevant to an outstanding motion, even if the motion could be decided without it, because preventing discovery on information relevant to the potentially dispositive motion would be an abuse of this Court's discretion." Glob. Commodities Trading Grp., Inc. v. Beneficio De Arroz Choloma, S.A., No. 2:16-cv-01045-TLN-CKD, 2016 WL 7474912, at *2 (E.D. Cal. Dec. 29, 2016) (emphasis added); see also Mlejnecky v. Olympus Imaging Am., Inc., No. 2:10-cv-02630, 2011 WL 489743, at *7 (E.D. Cal. Feb. 7, 2011) ("Indeed, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals has indicated that, under certain circumstances, a district court abuses its discretion if it prevents a party from conducting discovery that is relevant to the basis for the potentially dispositive motion.").

Here, Plaintiffs have not yet served discovery on Defendants, and the Court has taken Defendants' Rule 12(b)(6) motions under submission. However, if the Court denies Defendants' Motion to Stay Discovery, Plaintiffs will serve discovery requests that are relevant to the bases for Defendants' motions to dismiss. For example, Plaintiffs will serve requests for production of documents seeking the results of any authenticity testing Defendants have done on the honey they imported, packed, audited, certified, and sold. For another example, Plaintiffs will serve requests for production of documents concerning any investigations or audits Defendants have conducted regarding the use of extraneous syrups or resin technology to produce the honey at issue.

Even if case law such as Mlejnecky did not require the Court to permit discovery that is relevant to the bases of the outstanding motions to dismiss, "there is greater benefit to allowing discovery to proceed at this time even [if] such discovery is not required to resolve [Defendants'] Motion[s] to Dismiss as it would promote the court's interest, as well as that of the public, in judicial efficiency and timely resolution of litigation." San Francisco

1 Tech. v. Kraco Enterprises LLC, No. 5:11-cv-00355-EJD, 2011 WL 2193397, at *3 (N.D.
2 Cal. June 6, 2011).

3 C. Defendants Have Failed to Show They Would Suffer Any 4 Specific Prejudice or Harm If Discovery Proceeds.

5 The party seeking a protective order bears the burden “to ‘show good cause’ by 6 demonstrating harm or prejudice that will result from the discovery.” Rivera v. NIBCO,
7 Inc., 364 F.3d 1057, 1063 (9th Cir. 2004). It has been established, for decades, that 8 “showing that discovery may involve some inconvenience and expense does not suffice 9 to establish good cause for issuance of a protective order.” Twin City Fire Ins. Co. v.
10 Emps. Ins. of Wausau, 124 F.R.D. 652, 653 (D. Nev. 1989). See also Arellano v.
11 Calderon, 2023 WL 4568772, at *3 (S.D. Cal. July 14, 2023) (“The fact that participating 12 in discovery may involve some inconvenience and expense . . . is not sufficient to support 13 a stay.” (citations omitted)). Rather, “[c]ourts have insisted on a particular and specific 14 demonstration of fact, as distinguished from conclusory statements, in order to establish 15 good cause.” Twin City Fire Ins. Co., 124 F.R.D. at 653.

16 Here, Defendants assert that they “would suffer significant prejudice if they are 17 required to invest substantial time, money, and resources to gather, review, and produce 18 voluminous documents and data relating to honey shipments, certification, and other 19 topics going back many years . . . .” Mot. at 7 (emphasis added). But this type of 20 conclusory and hypothetical assertion of burden does not constitute “a particular and 21 specific demonstration” of harm, Twin City Fire Ins. Co., 124 F.R.D. at 653, but rather 22 only the potential for the ordinary “inconvenience and expense [of discovery that] does 23 not suffice to establish good cause to stay discovery,” Flores v. Merck & Co., 2021 WL
24 4781503, at *2 (D. Nev. Oct. 13, 2021).

25 Given that a conference of parties under Rule 26(f) has not even taken place and 26 no discovery has been served, Defendants cannot show “specific prejudice or harm” that 27 will result from discovery proceeding, see Foltz, 331 F.3d at 1130. Rather, Defendants’ 28 assertions are hypothetical. Given this, it is not surprising that courts have found that they

1 “cannot evaluate the burden and proportionality of the discovery until discovery has 2 opened,” Allen v. Protective Life Ins. Co., 2020 WL 5074021, at *3 (E.D. Cal. Aug. 27,
 3 2020) (denying “Defendants’ motion to stay discovery as premature” where the 26(f)
 4 conference had not taken place).

5 That the predominant theme in Defendants’ Motion is that discovery should be 6 stayed because “antitrust discovery can be expensive,” Mot. at 7 (citation and quotation
 7 marks omitted), simply highlights that they lack “a particular and specific demonstration 8 of fact, as distinguished from conclusory statements,” as required to carry their burden of 9 showing good cause, Twin City Fire Ins. Co., 124 F.R.D. at 653. See also Beckman 10 Indus., Inc. v. Int’l Ins. Co., 966 F.2d 470, 476 (9th Cir. 1992) (“[B]road allegations of 11 harm, unsubstantiated by specific examples or articulated reasoning, do not satisfy the 12 Rule 26(c) test” for protective orders) (quoting Cipollone v. Liggett Group, Inc., 785 F.2d 13 1108, 1121 (3d Cir.1986) (internal quotation marks omitted)); Deford v. Schmid Prods.
 14 Co., 120 F.R.D. 648, 653 (D. Md. 1987) (requiring party requesting a protective order to 15 provide “specific demonstrations of fact, supported where possible by affidavits and 16 concrete examples, rather than broad, conclusory allegations of potential harm”). See 17 also Peyton v. Kibler, 2021 WL 3206209, at *2 (E.D. Cal. July 29, 2021) (“Rule 26 requires 18 ‘specific demonstrations of fact, supported where possible by affidavits and concrete 19 examples, rather than broad, conclusory allegations of harm.’” (quotation omitted)), report
 20 and recommendation adopted, 2021 WL 4804058 (E.D. Cal. Oct. 14, 2021).

21 i. That This is an Antitrust Case Does Not Justify a Stay

22 Defendants’ reliance on Plaintiffs’ assertion of antitrust claims to stay all discovery, 23 Mot. 7-8, is misplaced. See Optronix Techs., Inc., 2018 WL 1569811, at *2 (“[T]he costs 24 and burdens of antitrust discovery do not erect an automatic barrier to discovery in every 25 case in which an antitrust defendant challenges the sufficiency of a complaint.”).<sup>4</sup> While 26

27 <sup>4</sup> This principle was previously laid out in detail. See 2022 Opp. to Mot. to Stay Discovery 28 at 13-15.

Defendants argue the costs of discovery in antitrust actions are “prohibitive,” Mot. at 7, they provide no actual evidence of the burden that would be imposed—much less prove it is prohibitive. Indeed, they cannot, since there are no requests presently directed at Defendants. And Defendants lack standing to assert objections for discovery directed at third parties based on burden. See Redick v. Lowes Home Centers, LLC, 2022 WL 3717996, at *3 (E.D. Cal. Aug. 29, 2022) (“The general rule . . . is that a party has no standing to quash a subpoena served upon a third party, except as to claims of privilege relating to the documents being sought.” (quoting California Sportfishing Prot. All. v. Chico Scrap Metal, Inc., 299 F.R.D. 638, 643 (E.D. Cal. 2014))). Because Defendants lack standing to raise objections of burden on behalf of third parties, they have not established good cause to stay all discovery. See Redick, 2022 WL 3717996, at *3 (“Under this general rule, plaintiff lacks standing to object to the subpoena on grounds of relevance or undue burden.” (citing Wells Fargo & Co. v. ABD Ins., 2012 WL 6115612, at *2 (N.D. Cal. Dec. 10, 2012))).

ii. Extending the Stay Further Would Prejudice Plaintiffs

Defendants argue Plaintiffs “will have ample time to complete discovery if and after answers are filed,” Mot. at 9, but this ignores that, absent the ability to conduct discovery, for example, of third parties, relevant documents may be destroyed as such parties may be under no obligation to put litigation holds on the destruction of documents. Thus, not only with evidence in the possession, custody, or control of Defendants, but in particular with evidence controlled by third parties there is a significant risk that such evidence will be destroyed or simply erode—undermining the carriage of justice since invariably memories may fade, evidence may become stale or lost, or witnesses may die or move away. Cf. Blue Cross & Blue Shield of Ala. v. Unity Outpatient Surgery Ctr., Inc., 490 F.3d 718, 724 (9th Cir. 2007) (“[L]engthy and indefinite stays place a plaintiff effectively out of court. Such an indefinite delay amounts to a refusal to proceed to a disposition on the merits. Even if litigation may eventually resume, such stays create a ‘danger of denying justice by delay.’ Delay ‘inherently increases the risk that witnesses’ memories will fade

1 and evidence will become stale.’ Additionally, in some cases plaintiffs may go out of 2 business awaiting recovery or face irreparable harm during the time that their suits are on 3 ice.” (citations omitted)); Commodity Futures Trading Comm’n v. Fin. Tree, 2021 WL
 4 2681920, at *4 (E.D. Cal. June 30, 2021) (Nunley, J.) (“delay in proceedings is prejudicial
 5 because witnesses may die or move away, memories fade, evidence may be lost or 6 become stale or enforcement resources may be diverted”).

7 The existential risk of an ongoing stay to Plaintiffs is readily apparent from the SAC
 8 itself. “Plaintiff Bullfrog Bees is unable to get a fair price for the genuine honey it produces
 9 and cannot even break even, i.e., sell its honey for its cost of production. As a result,
 10 Bullfrog Bees has been forced to sell its genuine honey only to local retailers, leaving it
 11 without the ability to grow the number of hives it maintains, increase the amount of honey 12 it produces, or otherwise grow its business.” SAC ¶ 147. Additionally, “Valor Honey is 13 unable to compete with the low price at which Defendants sell their fake honey, and, as 14 a result of Defendants’ wrongful and unlawful conduct, cannot even break even when 15 selling its honey. This is because nearly every mass retailer . . . is unwilling to pay a fair 16 price for Valor Honey’s honey . . . .” Id. ¶ 148. Moreover, Plaintiff Adee Honey Farms, the 17 largest honey production farm in the country, “has been forced to sell its genuine honey 18 at a substantially lower-than-break-even price, and often cannot sell its honey at all.” Id.
 19 ¶ 149. Indeed, “Adee is currently storing over 6 million pounds of honey it has been unable 20 to sell because Defendants and other potential customers will not buy it when they can 21 instead purchase for a lesser price fake honey that is True Source Certified.” Id. Plaintiffs 22 should not be denied justice by further and indefinite delay.

23 CONCLUSION

24 For the reasons given above, the Court should deny Defendants’ Motion and order 25 Defendants to comply with their discovery obligations.
